

Wesley J. Snyder

Summary:

Twenty years of customer service experience across the hospitality and gaming industries, including six years educating the young minds of the next generation. An educational background rooted in studying the human element that has yielded an AA, a BA and an MA. This path has bred a strong-willed, analytical, detail-oriented man of honor and integrity. I'd be perfect for a role as a Front-End Web Developer who either works closely with the client, meeting and exceeding their expectations, or with a team of programmers, collaborating and optimizing production.

Objective:

To locate a Front-End Web Developer opportunity where I can my utilize my certified training, synthesized with my experience in academia and interpersonal communications, to fulfill the demands of client-side coding, as well as take a holistic approach to addressing and solving the needs of the client while maximizing output and efficiency for the company.
